Portfolio Commentary for the month of March 2021:

The portfolio lagged its benchmark in March as the investor continued to favor value stocks, particularly in the energy and financial services sectors, over growth stocks such as technology stocks. The fast rising US bond yields have appeared to trigger valuation multiple compression in the high-multiple growth stocks. Industrial stocks that should benefit from the gradual reopening of the world economies such as Airbus, Atlas Copco and Schneider were added to the portfolio. Stocks in the materials, consumer discretionary and consumer staple sectors were the performance leaders whereas those in the financial and healthcare sectors were the laggards.

Market Outlook:

The quarter... In Q1/21, the ARI ACWI ex-US strategy declined -1.52%, lagging the benchmark by 501 bps, as investors aggressively purchased cyclical stocks rotating out of high-multiple growth companies and those in traditional non-cyclical sectors, such as Healthcare, to best participate in the upcoming economic recovery. Accordingly, the strategy's numerous investments in Technology and Healthcare stocks resulted in both, sector-allocation and stock-selection, contributing to the underperformance in the period. Stocks in the consumer discretionary, IT and industrial were the performance leaders whereas those in the healthcare, financial and communication services were the laggards. Incorporating the view that the world economy is on track to resume growth, we selectively purchased stocks in the Industrial and consumer staples segments as secular growth drivers within that area have recovered from COVID related disruptions.

ARI's View... The world economy is on track to return to growth in 2021, albeit on an uneven basis. The rebound in growth is likely to be led by the relatively robust Chinese and U.S economies. Early implementation of lockdown measures in China and accelerating daily vaccination rates in the U.S. appear to be the reasons for each country's ability to recover faster than others. In contrast, Europe's road to recovery is likely to be gradual, held back by a slower vaccine rollout. Likewise, several large EM countries, such as, Brazil, India and Mexico are still struggling to bring high levels of COVID cases under control. During the quarter, rapidly increasing U.S. bond yields gave rise to the selling of high-multiple growth stocks, pushing cyclical stocks to lead market performance. Although valuations within the overall equity market remain high, the contraction in multiples among growth stocks and the impending earnings recovery for many cyclical companies have sequentially improved the market's risk/reward position. As always, we believe that owning growing companies, capable of compounding shareholder value through secular growth drivers remains the best approach for long-term investors. Moreover, our disciplined process has not changed, that is, we invest according to our four investment criteria over a three-to-five-year investment horizon rather than participating in short-term cyclical forces.

Risks ARI is Monitoring... 1. Further increase of US bond yields and the subsequent impact on market valuation and company interest expenses, 2. Sustained high unemployment rates and the state of the labor market, 3. A resurgence of COVID cases in several large economies other than the US and China, 4. US-China relations, 5. Chinese regulations in the Technology and Financial sectors, 6. Potential impact of rapidly increasing sovereign debt levels.
